FAILURE OF CONFERENCE AT GENOA IS JUSTIFICATION OF THE AMERICAN WORLD POLICY

Effort To Settle Europe's Problems For The Benefit Of The Imperial Ideas Brings No Real Results—Now The Nations Must Pay Heed To The Advice Washington Has Given And Try To Get Together On Unselfish And Liberal Lines—Lloyd George's Great Bluff Having Brot No Results, Britain Now Begins To Make Sacrifices In Order To Gain Our Good Will Hughes Wins Victory On Mandates

BY EUGENE J. YOUNG

NEW YORK, May 20—The great farce at Genoa—called an attempt to bring Europe together, but in reality an effort to bring all Europe within the sway of great Empires—has been played to its legitimate finish. Lloyd George has strutted the stage proclaiming himself the saviour of mankind and mankind has refused to enthrone him as such. France has played to gain fresh advantages in Russia and elsewhere and comes away with empty hands. Tchitcherin has played to rouse Europe to revolution against the "capitalistic governments" and must go back to Moscow with nothing more than he brot.

Selfishness has been met with selfishness. Attempts of one nation to recoup itself by taking from others have broken down against the similar attempts of rivals. Europe is left just where it was before the conference met, almost bankrupt, suffering for lack of food and comforts, unable to bring itself back to its old industriousness—and very much disillusioned about its own statesmen.

But there is no need for Americans or for any forward looking persons to feel very badly about the results. The old selfish diplomacy had to be discredited before the real forces of helpfulness and progress could get to work. And now that imperial diplomacy has been shown in all its insincerity and sham there is a chance that something can be done in the direction of real reconstruction and peace.

America Taking a Strong Hand

Several facts, which have not had the importance they deserve in the news of the day, stand out as the failure of the Genoa conference is recorded.

1. This meeting of the powers was called at the instance of Lloyd George (who had not attended the Washington Conference) as a means of showing the old European statesmanship could be as successful in bringing peace as had been the newer American statesmanship. It was intended to restore prestige to the British Empire. It was also intended to solidify the position of that Empire in Europe and Asia. Neither object has been

IS HEAD CHEF OF COOKING SCHOOL

ROBERT B. SHIVES

Mr. Shives is to be the head instructor at the Cooking School which The Tribune is to conduct at the Sixth Street Theatre this week. He has had 20 years' experience as an expert cook and is a graduate of Wooster College, where he specialized in food chemistry. He is in demand as a home economics lecturer and demonstrator in schools and colleges.

JUDGE NICHOLAS MAY BE SPEAKER HERE ON MAY 30

It is likely that Ex-Judge S. H. Nicholas will deliver the Memorial address at South Lawn cemetery on Decoration Day, May 30, according to information received from one of the American Legion officials, late Saturday.

The members of Ralph Courtright Post No. 65 will hold apropriate ceremonies at South Lawn cemetery after the memorial ceremonies of the G. A. R. are held at Oak Ridge cemetery.

The local American Legion will assist the Civil war veterans in the memorial activities at Oak Ridge cemetery.

A big parade is expected to be one of the Memorial Day features. The American Legion band will participate in the Decoration Day parade. The legion band makes its initial appearance on that day.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the local American Legion is making wreaths for every service man's grave in this county. The graves of the G. A. R., Spanish War veterans and the World war veterans will be decorated by a detail of legion men. When taps are blown at South Lawn cemetery on Decoration Day, the wreaths will be dropped on the respective veterans' graves. The legion program committee is planning in securing two little girls for each grave at South Lawn cemetery to take part in the decoration ceremonies.

All World war veterans' graves will be decorated with a poppy in addition to other decorations applied to the graves.

The Memorial program of the American Legion has not yet been completed.

Cleaning Cemetery

Several dead oak trees are being removed from the Oak Ridge cemetery by T. J. McDermott and Edwin Blackson, at the order of Charles Wells, cemetery superintendent.

The trees menaced the lives of visitors to the cemetery, heavy limbs snapping off and falling with the slightest breeze.

The largest of the trees reach a height of 70 feet.

CONDITION IS SATISFACTORY

Word from the bedside of Mrs. Fred S. Wallace, 718 Main-st, in Grant hospital at Columbus Saturday was to the effect that her condition was satisfactory. Mrs. Wallace underwent a serious operation Saturday morning.

LEGIONNAIRES WILL SELL POPPIES FOR MEMORIAL SEASON

Lest we forget.

The local American Legion urges the public to purchase a poppy either on next Saturday, Monday or Tuesday, May 27, 29 and 30 at any one of the local stores and wear it in memory of Coshocton county's World war veterans, who gave their lives in the late struggle.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the local American Legion will be in charge of the sale of the poppies. Booths will be placed in each of the Main-st stores and a saleslady will be in charge of it.

There will be no standard sale price set for the poppy. Whatever the individual cares to pay for one of the poppies, the donation will be accepted and a poppy given in return.

The poppies are to be worn especially on Decoration Day. The poppies can be worn appropriately on two days previous to Memorial Day. The poppy flower is the American Legion's adopted emblem.

The poppies to be sold are made of red crepe paper. They are imitations of the red poppies that grow on the battlefields of France. The paper flowers were made in U. S. A.

The proceeds from the sale of the paper flowers will go to the local American Legion funds. The proceeds will be used toward defraying many of the expenses incurred by the local post. A part of the proceeds will go toward financing the Ralph Courtright Post band.

Grindstone Falls On Men; One Killed And Another Badly Hurt

PITTSBURGH, PA., May 20.—George Bier was killed and John A. Remler, was severely injured at 9:30 o'clock today when a five ton grindstone in the plant of the Marshall Foundry Co., Twenty-eighth-st, toppled over onto them.

KING TO AGAIN BE GRAND MARSHAL OF MEMORIAL PARADE

W. H. King, Grand Marshal, Richard Lanning Post number 69, Grand Army of the Republic, and his staff of Grand Army officers will have charge of the annual Memorial Day parade, Tuesday, May 30, according to plans announced Saturday.

The procession will form in three divisions, at Richard Lanning Post headquarters at 8:30 Tuesday morning.

The first division will be composed of the American Legion Band, Ralph Courtright Post Number 65 of the American Legion, World War veterans, public school children.

The Salvation Army band will lead the second division, composed of Parochial school pupils under the supervision of Father J. J. Slattery, Spanish-American war veterans, Moose drill team in command of Captain Emery Spurr.

The third division, led by the Sons of Veterans' drum corps, will be composed of the Boy Scouts in command of W. F. Tankersley, Richard Lanning Post of the G. A. R. in command of C. C. Hootinger, the Women's Relief Corps, and any other patriotic organizations.

All organizations are asked to report to W. H. King.

The procession will get into motion at the city hall, marching east on

BAKER IS HONORED BY STATE BANKERS

R. Q. Baker, of this city, cashier of the Coshocton National bank, was elected vice-president for the National Bank Division at the convention of the Ohio Bankers' Association, which convened in Cincinnati, O., Friday.

Hundreds of prominent bankers from Ohio attended this convention. Probelms of the farmer and railroads were discussed at this meeting. W. H. Yeasting, of Toledo, was elected to head the Association.

Rivers Are Rising

As a result of the past week's steady rain, both the Walhonding and Tuscarawas rivers were rising rapidly Saturday. In some places the Walhonding river is threatening to break its banks and inundate the fields along its course. Both rivers were almost out of their banks at the Forks late Saturday night.

The gauge at the Coshocton bridge shows that the Tuscarawas river has risen from 1 foot and 1 inch to 5 feet and 8 inches since Saturday morning.

The exact amount of rain that fell last week, according to the local weather observer, Mrs. Ada Jeffries, Bridge-st, was 1.71 inches.

Farmers were complaining Saturday about the inclemency of the weather, which is detrimental to crops.

TO TEACH WOMEN HOW TO BAKE

MISS ROSE WEILENMAN

She is one of the corps of experts in home economics who will give cooking lessons under Tribune auspices at the Sixth Street theatre next Tuesdayy, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons from 2.00 to 4:30. Miss Weilenman, who is a graduate of a domestic science school at Chicago, Ills., has a wide reputation as a cake baker and will be featured especially in this capacity in the cooking school.

SOLICITORS FOR LIBRARY TO GET STARTED MON.

Get your fountain pen primed to write big figures, for the library solicitors will be on the job early Monday morning.

At a meting held Friday evening, the city was divided into eight districts, exclusive of the factories. Team captains for each of these districts were appointed. They were given the authority to organize their own teams.

The men expect to raise the necessary $3,000 without the slightest difficulty. A discussion of the merits of the cause for which they will solicit subscriptions, is not anticipated as a part of their work, for they believe everyone will agree that the cause is most worthy.

The solicitors are acting as agents of the people in their work of collecting the subscriptions for the library, and feel that every person asked for a donation will help them facilitate the work, by subscribing quickly.

All of the solicitors are business men, and they are donating their valuable time to the work for the benefit of the city library.

The men who have volunteered to do the work were assigned to the following districts Friday evening.

Factories—C. R. Frederickson, T. B. Anderson.
District No. 1—J. S. Elliott, Jos. McKeown.
District No. 2—J. J. Dolan, Lewis Glover.
District No. 3—L. M. Anderson, W. R. Lynde, Jr.
District No. 4—Dave Jackson, Carl Hawthorne.
District No. 5—Charles Cooper, Blake Mizer.
District No. 6—Floyd Holl, A. Golden.
District No. 7—Francis Weaver.
District No. 8—Guy Clow.

RICHARD LANNING POST MEMBERS TO ATTEND SERVICES

The members of Richard Lanning Post, G. A. R., have been invited to attend the Memorial Day services, Sunday morning, May 28 at the M. P. church.

The G. A. R. Post will assemble at the Post rooms at 10:15 o'clock that morning and go in a body to the church.

GUARDSMEN CAMP AT FAIRGROUNDS

One hundred and eighty uniformed members of the Ohio National Guard of Dresden were stationed at the fairgrounds Saturday night and Sunday. The company of soldiers were expected to maneuver today at the grounds.

The soldiers from the Dresden encampment came to Coshocton Saturday on horses. An army supply truck accompanied the soldiers to this city.

The cavalrymen were using the barns at the fairgrounds Saturday night to store their provisions and shelter their horses in.

The company is expected to depart for Dresden some time today, it was learned.

PESSIMISM PREVAILS

Upturn In Business May Be Reasonably Expected By Fall This Year

(By ROGER W. BABSON)

NEW YORK, May 20.—"Talk about musicians and actors being temperamental! They cannot beat the average business man who is up today and down tomorrow. Within a period of sixty days he will be a pessimist, an optimist, and back again to a pessimist, when all the time nature is slowly but surely following its natural course," said Roger W. Babson in his weekly interview on business conditions.

"A year ago business men were very pessimistic; then came a temporary upturn in business and following the lead of certain Federal officials and prosperity boomers, they became optimistic. Since, however, these prosperity forecasts have not matured, they are again down in the dump. How long will it take us to learn that presidents don't make business but rather business makes presidents? It is true that conditions are dull at the present time partly on account of the late wet spring, partly due to the floods of the south, partly due to the strikes in New England and New York State, and partly due to the upset conditions in Europe. When, however, business is looked upon from a long range it will be seen that it is passing thru only a natural readjustment which takes always considerable time. I stated over two years ago that no permanent improvement could be expected before August 1922, and I still feel that way. Even after the corner turns in the summer or fall of this year, it will be a slow altho a steady climb upward.

"On the other hand, as all industries were not hit at the same time, they will tend to come back at different times. The industry that was

COMMENCEMENT TO BE HELD IN HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

The high school commencement exercises, which are to be held Thursday evening, May 25 at the Central auditorium, will mark the closing of the 1921-22 school term in Coshocton public schools.

It was planned at first to hold the high school commencement exercises at Grace M. E. church, on account of a greater seating capacity. The place was changed Saturday to the local high school auditorium.

This term in the Coshocton public schools closed with a friendly rivalry in their studies among four seniors, who are to graduate Thursday evening. The ones receiving the highest averages in their studies for the term were Miss Mary Hahn, valedictorian; Miss Zoe Campbell, salutatorian; Owen Evans and Gifford King. Miss Hahn had the highest average and Miss Campbell ran a close second. The four had averages ranging between 90.3 and 93 and a fraction.

The honor pupils of the senior class this term include Mary Hahn, Zoe Campbell, Owen Evans, Gifford King, Janice Richardson, Clifford King, Audrey Lapp, Paul Brier, James Stuart and Harold Hunt.

Much credit for the success of the past schol term is due the following members of the high school faculty.

FISCHER COMES OUT FOR CLERK COURTS

James J. Fischer, north Sixth-st, announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination as county clerk of courts, Saturday evening.

He was a contender for the same nomination four years ago.

Fischer was the proprietor of a retail merchandise business in Warsaw until three years ago, when he moved to Coshocton. He has held several township offices and is well known over the county. He has demonstrated his business ability to a good advantage, and is considered capable of efficiently discharging the duties of the office to which he aspires.

He has been a life-long Democrat and is the first man to formally announce his candidacy for the position of clerk of courts, from either party.

DUBLIN REJOICES OVER PEACE AGREEMENT REACHED AMID DIN OF FRATRICIDAL WAR IN ERIN

Collins And DeValera Sign Peace Pact Looking To Formation Of A Coalition Cabinet—Incendiarism And Guerilla Warfare Shake Very Foundations Of Northern Ireland—General Election Set For June 16—Presidency To Be Retained By Free Staters

DUBLIN, May 20.—All Dublin rejoiced tonight over the news that the Irish free state and the Republicans have decided upon peace. Following the announcement of Friday that the negotiations between Michael Collins, and Eamonn DeValera had broken down, the information that an agreement had been reached came as a surprise, but a pleasant one.

LONDON, May 20.—British crown forces were forced to take a hand in the rioting in Belfast tonight, according to an exchange telegraph message from the Ulster capital. Fighting of such intensity that it could not be controlled, broke out in the Crumlin-rd district, said the dispatch and the crown forces finally fired a volley into the mobs. Two persons were reported killed and four were wounded. Michael Collins, representing the free state and Eamonn DeValera, representing the Republicans have signed a tentative agreement, reached by the Dail Eireann, Sinn Fein parliament, to form a coalition cabinet representing the two factions.

While reports were being received here tonight of improved peace conditions in the Irish free state Ulster plunged into another orgy of weekend violence.

LONDON, May 20.—Cenral News reports from Belfast say that Northern Ireland is in the midst of wild guerilla warfare and incendiarism. Three men are reported killed, and seven wounded in an attack on Castle Wellan Barracks, Old Court Castle. Numerious homes of villagers were reported burned down in Patrick.

BELFAST, May 20.—Northern Ireland today is in the throes of one of the worst reigns of terror that this section has known since Christmas. The cabinet has reported to London that the situation in Ulster is most serious. The night was one wild jamboree of sniping, burning and pillaging, both sides participating. A military officer, motoring in Ballykinlar, was held up, his wife shot and instantly killed and he was seriously wounded.

A late report received here which

RECEPTION FOR CLASS OF 1922 TUESDAY NIGHT

Members of the graduating class of 1922 of the Coshocton high school will be entertained by the Alumni Tuesday evening at an informal reception and dance in Oskaloosa hall.

Extensive plans are being made by the social committee for the affair which promises to be unusually delightful.

In addition to cards and dancing, an entertaining musical program will be given. Good music will be furnished for the dancing between the hours of 8 until 12 o'clock. The Phi Delta Kappa club rooms have been secured for the evening.

All members of the Alumni and their friends are included in the invitation.

COP IS BAPTIZED WITH WHITE MULE IN MAKING ARREST

A Coshocton policeman reported at headquarters about nine o'clock Saturday evening literally soused with corn whiskey. But he was soused externally not internally.

It happened when Chief of Police Ray Duling, Officer George Fretague, and Lieutenant Ed. Hankins attempted to arrest Roy Cox, butcher.

As the officers stepped in the rear of the meat shop on Walnut-st Cox spied them and ran for the front counter. Fretague gave chase. When he reached the counter Cox grabbed a quart milk bottle filled with liquor and started emptying it. Fretague wrestled with him and during the melee, he received the contents of the bottle on his clothes.

It took all three of the officers to finally subdue Cox and he was taken to the city prison with handcuffs on his wrists.

A charge of possessing intoxicating liquor will be placed against him, police said.

AGATHONS COMING FOR THURSDAY EVE GAME AT RED SEA

Another Call To The Colors—The Library

THERE will be no more hesitation on the part of our people to come to the rescue of the Public Library than there would be if the public schools were placed in like jeopardy.

There will be no more hesitation now than there was in the trying years of the war when all personal and factional differences were forgotten and we were in spirit and in truth A UNITED PEOPLE.

There will be no more holding back on this diminutive drive that will be staged this week to save the life of the Public Library than there would be if another calamity in the form of a physical scourge threatened the city.

There have been calls for volunteers in the past. In all probability there will be more in the future. And there is no more likelihood that Coshocton will falter when the appeal is made to keep the doors of the Library from being locked than there was in the trying times of the World War.

The cause to which the men and women of this city will be asked to contribute this week is a worthy cause. With that fact established the success of the drive is assured.

It has already been established. The announcement that the Library would have to be closed for want of funds brot instant response. The business men of the city, the manufacturers, Trades Council, the Federation of Women's Clubs, the churches and a host of individuals with one accord said it could not be.

It will not be. If the personnel of the canvassers were sufficient to cover the homes and business places of the city in an hour, THE DRIVE WOULD BE OVER IN AN HOUR. In reality it is estimated that two days will be required to cover the city. In that event two days will suffice.

Whatever the physical and financial requirements may be, they will be met and THE LIBRARY WILL REMAIN OPEN.

While every man, woman and child in the city will respond affirmatively to the sentiment expressed above, yet this drive is, in a sense, a humiliation to the city. Not in the sense that the solicitors are doing anything to be ashamed of in asking for the necessary funds, for we are sure they will be met with a generous welcome in every home, every factory and in every retail place of business.

But the fact that the city of Coshocton has arrived at a place financially where it can no longer maintain on its own credit so essential a factor in community welfare as a Public Library is, in a way, a municipal scandal. It is so much of a civic disgrace that we hope the lesson we are learning from this one experience will never have to be learned again in Coshocton.

In plain English it does a city no good to be compelled thus publicly to proclaim so distasteful a fact as the closing of its Library. Only in a less degree, but no different in principle, would be a similar announcement concerning its public schools. Nor is it an excuse to say that other cities both larger and smaller than Coshocton have been compelled to do the same thing.

So far as this paper is concerned there will be no attempt to excuse even the contemplated closing of the Library. To our mind it is inexcusable and due wholly to the incompetent handling of the city's business, not especially by those now in charge, but due to the incompetent transaction of public affairs over a period of long years, due to faulty public standards of economics, due to wrong methods which no successful business concern would tolerate for twenty-four hours.

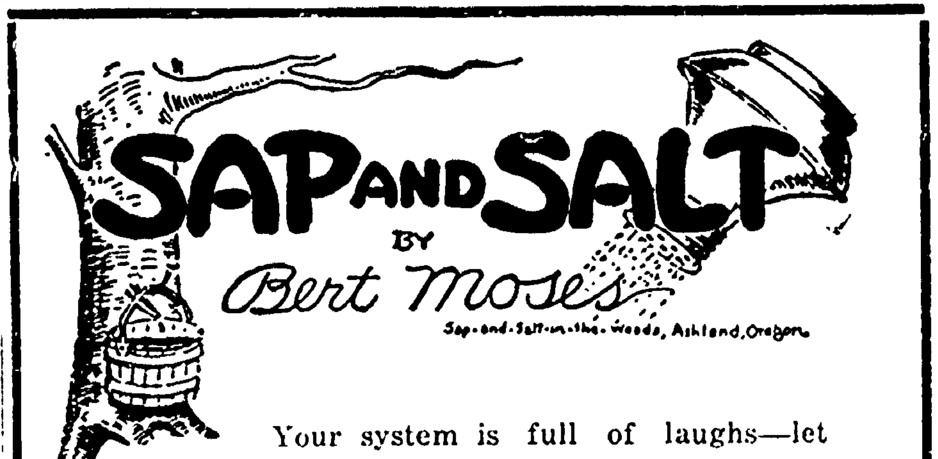
But that is neither here nor there now. The unpleasant fact stares us all in the face that the Library is in jeopardy and the thing to do immediately is to remove the menace, keep it open for our children and those adults who are studiously inclined and receive both profit and pleasure from the institution.

But ultimately the thing which is causing this unpleasant chapter of municipal history to be written HAS GOT TO BE FACED, AND FACED FUNDAMENTALLY, for it is a thing WHICH CAN'T BE PERIODICALLY MET AND SATISFIED WITH DRIVES.

All this, however, is wholly incidental to the purpose of this article, whose only object is to arouse public interest to the necessity of the immediate need of saving the Library and putting it temporarily at least beyond any doubt as to its continued existence.

Let us all, whether as concerns or individuals, get behind the Library drive and put it over with funds to spare. On this one point all are agreed. The Library must not close—IT SHALL NOT BE CLOSED.

And then, when the immediate crisis has been met there is ample time to get behind council and the entire municipal administration and resolve to go into the question of municipal finance FUNDAMENTALLY and settle it as becomes the conduct of prudent men in the management of their individual and corporate affairs.



Your system is full of laughs—let them escape.

New York Day-By-Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 20—The intimate French cafe that blooms in the marble magnificence of the de-luxe apartment house is a far cry from the old French table d' hote with its 60 per cent "red ink" dinner and easy intimacy. The new is only for the plethoric purse—the old was for pauper and aristocrat.

The new is a hideaway for husbands and wives on the loose, who fear the glare of the supper clubs. There is no music. The telephone is banned and the lights shed a feeble glow. At the door one may scan the patrons thru an oval glass before entering. Forewarned is forearmed in these haunts.

Picard or Josef is discreet. He knows his clientele and he knows the below stairs gossip of the rich. If he turns regular patrons away discreetly they understand. So much so that the next day he may receive a good sized check for averting an embarrassing moment.

It is a jaded crowd—riding pleasure with whip and spur. The sin-stained and world weary, in an atmosphere pungent with the elusive scents of Araby, seeking illusion's laughter and finding fancy's tears. In a corner sits a fop with the owlish stare of the monocled. A gossip weekly hints he was horsewhipped by an irate Long Island husband.

A foot-light flame with a dazzling audacity hanging from gleaming shoulders enters with a white haired cynic who has divorced three wives in a row. And has a fourth. She sems to say: "I don't want to worry any wives but I must be amused." There is languor in her throat. So she reads La Is Parisenne while he blows contemplative smoke rings.

At another table sits a girl, only three years out of a Topeka five and ten cent store, who by the magic of New York's alchemy has been transmuted from an automate devotee to a tenant in a most select hotel. She has discarded Broadway surface cars for platinum lined limousines manned by day and night chauffeurs. And she cannot sing, dance or act.

Even the entrances suggest the liaison. From curb to door—fair weather or foul—is an awning panoplied runway. The haughty doorman if asked if so-and-so is dining there will invariably answer "No."

Two legless men on roller platforms were propelling themselves hurriedly by handstrokes to the pavement along Thirty Fourth street at a busy shopping hour. In dodging the crowds they suddenly collided. They exchanged apologies and propelled themselves alongside a store window where they talked for a full half-hour and instead of departing in opposite directions they rolled away together.

Broadway novelty shops, during the hold-up carnival, are having a big sale of imitation revolvers. They sell for a dollar and cannot be distinguished from the real thing a few feet away.

Agnes Repplier was addressing the English Speaking Union at the Biltmore. Her point was that the humblest citizens of other nations possess the glories of their literatures, whereas the American and English proletariats are indifferent to the best that has been written in their native tongues.

One of the audience decided upon a little experiment after the meeting: He saw a man at a peanut stand and thinking he must be Italian spoke to him pleasantly in his native tongue. The peanut vender looked gravely at the stranger and said: "I am not Italian. I am a Greek."

"Oh" said the stranger "And do you read the plays of Euripides?"

"I read them" said the Greek "But I prefer Aeschylus."

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

From The Tribune Files

Touching lightly on a half dozen of the more important subjects being discussed in the present campaign, Col. Theodore Roosevelt made a rapid fire, back platform speech of ten minutes while his special train hesitated at the local Pennsy station Monday afternoon.

Charles Bird, of Springfield, Ohio was granted the contract for the building of the stretch of improved road between Walhonding and New Guilford, by the commissioners Monday at his bid of $16,170.

T. H. Wheeler was in Zanesville yesterday and completed all arrangements for the trip of the Coshocton high school seniors, which will be taken the week of June 11 to Pittsburgh.

After dragging the river from the Randles bridge to Tyndal for two days, the searching party which has been making an attempt to recover the bodies of Harry Wallace, 20 and Eugene Thompson 17, both colored, who drowned in the Muskingum river, just North of Randles Bridge Sunday morning, temporarily gave up the quest Monady evening.

The flouring mill at Helmick which has been idle for the past year, will today resume operations.

JACK JOHNSON MAY FIGHT TUT JACKSON AT WASHINGTON C. H.

COLUMBUS, May 20.—Jack Johnson, former world's heavyweight champion, will make his "comeback" bow in an Ohio ring soon, if plans of a syndicate of Columbus sportsmen materialize. According to announcement made here today the noted colored pugilist has given his consent to meet Tut Jackson, Chicago colored heavyweight, in a decision contest, probably at Washington C. H.

WALT MASON

THE RUINED LIFE

The pencil falters in my hand as I proceed to tell of Abner Lushington LeGrand, who's in a padded cell. I knew him in his younger years, when he was blithe and gay, and joyous as a yoke of steers he caroled on his way. In paths obscure he plugged along, and gained a small reward, and life was all a grand sweet song without a minor chord. At last by chance he conquered fame, and great was his renown, and all the snap shot artists came from every part of town. They snapped him when he sat to eat his shredded bran repast, they shot his hat, they shot his feet and made him stand aghast. He couldn't cough or swear or sneeze but snapshot fans were there; they snapped the spavins on his knees, the sandburs in his hair. He couldn't dodge the fatal lens, it got his every act, and, madder than nine setting hens, he felt his brain contract. The snapshot fiends so stirred his wrath he tore his beard and wept; they got him coming from the bath, they got him when he slept. And then his mind gave way, 'twas clear, his dome was on the blink; he had to shift to second gear when he would try to think. Ah, it would make one's bosom bleed to see him sunk so low: and still the snapshot fiends proceed, and picture as they go.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

CRITICISM PAID

Keene, Ohio,
May 20, 1922.

Editor Tribune
and Times-Age,
Coshocton, Ohio.
Dear Sir:

In doing what I believed to be my duty as a minister, and a citizen, I have severely criticized your paper for pictures which you have now ceased to print, and also some statements upon the enforcement of the Volstead Law, back of which is the 18th Amendment. These aforesaid statements were mostly telegraph and feature news, I believe. But your splendid ringing editorial in the issue of Thursday, May 18th, not only has my full approval, but surely that of every man and woman in this county, who respect the law, and expect justice themselves. I heartily recommend your paper to every christian citizen.

Friends, let us not talk so much, but practice what we preach by supporting a paper that stands for what we profess to desire. I personally do not know of a newspaper of general circulation that has tried to meet the demands of its readers more willingly and completely than the Coshocton Tribune. And again I bespeak for you a better support from Christian people, and all who love justice and respect law. Now Mr. Editor, as my criticisms were made publicly, I believe this should be published, for which I shall be duly grateful. Wishing you every success in your effort to give this section of Ohio a clean family paper, and expecting to do all I can to help in that direction, I am sincerely yours,

REV. F. G. WILLIAMS.

PEPPER FROM KEENE

Editor Tribune:

Let me give your readers just a little ancient history, something that few of the present day people know. The Hon. George Whorton Pepper, U. S. Senator from the old Key Stone State, and one of the most popular men of the state, is not a native born Pennsylvanian, but a native born Ohioan.

His father George Wharton Pepper, was an eloquent minister, patsor of the M. E. church in Keene, Coshocton county, Ohio, and while residing in that village George W. Jr. was born.

George W. Sr. was patriotic to the core. When Lincoln issued his proclimation calling out 75,000 volunteers he resigned his pastorate, and canvassed the entire state urging enlistments, and when the 80th Reg. was raised he enlisted, and was appointed Captain of Co. H., Nov. 15, 1861. After some 6 months service he resigned and received the appointment of Regimental Chaplain, and held this position until mustered out with the regiment August 13, 1865.

George W. Sr. with that rich Irish brogue, and full of mother wit, was one of the most eloquent orators of the times.

A short time after the Civil war was over he left Coshocton county and moved to Pennsylvania, where Geo. W. Jr. was educated and become a statesman of no mean order.

Pimples Stop! Boils Stop! Skin Eruptions Stop! "S. S. S." Stops Them!

Your Pimples, Blackheads, Acne, Boils, Blotches, Eczema and Rash Will Start to Quit When You Start Taking S. S. S. That is Because S. S. S. is Based on Scientific Facts That Do Not Change. Try It, It Will Prove It.

Love Calls Only to the Clear-Faces and to the Clean-Bloods!

"Sure enough, they're disappearing!" This is the short, sweet story that has been told, and is being told today and every day in the looking-glasses of thousands of men and women everywhere. It is the story of happiness once more at the disappearance of pimples, blotches, blackheads, acne, stubborn eczema, rash and tetter, from the use of joyful, powerful S. S. S. It is based on scientific facts which have been proved. S. S. S. is not a fad nor a theory. S. S. S. is a working fact! You can prove it. Thousands have proved it. S. S. S. drives out of the blood impurities that result in skin eruptions, and your pimples quit coming, your blackheads give up, boils surrender, eczema stops, blotches go! That's only part of the story. Your face clears, muddiness disappears, your skin looks ruddier, lips rosier, eyes clearer,—simply because S. S. S. drives out blood impurities that cause these conditions. S. S. S. is known as a blood-cell builder. When your blood-cells increase, a wonderful improvement results all through the body. Your weight is built up to normal. Your face rounds out, your cheeks fill out, you have fewer wrinkles and this makes you look younger of course, your limbs develop with their lines of beauty. And it's all worth while. It means happiness, progress, success to thousands of men and women. The best part of it is that it is all up to you, and to you alone. It is for you to act. Start on S. S. S. today, and know that you are getting rid of your skin eruptions in a scientific, common-sense way. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

first hit will be the first to come back. This was the silk industry and a change for the better is already in evidence. The industry which was most suppressed during the war will show the greatest recovery during the next few years; indeed, it is already recovering. I have in mind the building industry. There is a marked increase in the demand for all building materials, notably lumber, aitho iron and steel are sharing in the building boom. The sales of hadware and paints have increased. If labor does not become too hungry for increased wages, this spurt in new building may develop into a real boom.

"Another industry which should quickly show better times is the automobile industry, especially the makers of the more expensive cars. These makers were the first to be hit and these should be the first to come back. Following booms in the stock market the makers of expensive cars and other semi-luxuries always experience good business. For the first time in two years and a half, rubber factories at Akron are advertising for help. This same improvement in the employment situation is noticeable also in certain steel centers such as Youngstown, Ohio, and hardware centers such as Ansonia, Conn. where a wage increase of 15 per cent goes into effect May 16.

"Commodity prices are likewise adjusting themselves naturally. Those products which were first to decline such as cotton, sugar and lumber are showing a hardening tendency, while other products, such as furs, that were bot by the masses during the war in great quantities, are showing continued declines. "At the recent fur auctions, Silver Fur Fox was 25 per cent lower than in February, Marten 40 per cent lower, and other furs are falling in proportion. Better still, the cost of living as a whole is still on the decline. A man can purchase for 75 cents today what cost him a dollar a year ago. Retail sales are holding up very well, the mail order houses are showing increases, western shoe manufacturers are busy, and furniture factories are working on a liberal schedule Even coal production is holding up fairly well.

"All of this means that there is no reason why the banker, manufacturer, or merchant should be a pessimist or an optimist today. Neither the prosperity boomers nor the calamity howlers should be followed Business has not yet turned the corner, but it is naturally and steadily approaching the corner. No nation could go thru the great industrial development which this country experienced during the war without a natural reaction. This reaction we are passing thru today. We have already reached the end of the decline in the security markets. These markets are well on their way upward."

"Within a few months," concluded Mr. Babson "we should reach the end of the decline in general business. Honesty, thrift, industry, and the spirit of service will hasten the day."

The trend of general conditions as reflected in the index of the Babson-chart shows an improvement of 2 per cent during the last week. General business now stands at 13 per cent below normal.

BUSINESS MEN AID

The Fountain, Hanley mill, Cutshall's market, Gray Hdwe. Co., Stevenson's grocery, Coshocton creamery, Hawthorne Hdwe. Co., Sixth-st theatre box office, and Tribune office.

Sessions will be held from 2 to 4:30 Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons.

Tuesday's session will cover lessons in deep fat frying, making doughnuts and fritters, green salads and mayonnaise dressing. Women are urged to bring a pad and pencil with them, so that they may copy recipes and suggestions offered by the experts. The school will be conducted by Manning S. Leslie of Lakewood, O., a domestic science expert who has conducted many such school thruout the state with marked success. He will have two assistants, both of long experience in teaching cooking.

Samples of the prepared foods will be served. No food will be sold.

Wedensday will be pastry day, Thursday cake day, and Friday will be devoted to a review of the preceding lessons and further instructions in making salads and mayonnaise. The full program, telling the kinds of food which will be cooked and served was published in Thursday evening's Tribune.

Mr. Manning's assistants are Miss Rose L. Wellenman, graduate of the School of Domestic Science of Chicago, and Robert B. Shivers, of Wooster, a food authority of twenty years experience as a chef and teacher.

In Columbus, 75,000 tickets were distributed for the school conducted by these experts; in Newark, 4,162 women attended the school, and in Norwalk, 2,100. In Findlay two weeks ago, a thousand women attended each day, and in Chillicothe 3,100 women attended in the four days. From the interest expressed by local women, it is believed the attendance at the Coshocton school will compare favorably with that of any city its size. The school was conducted by newspapers in each of the foregoing cities.

Homes, stores, churches, factories—all over the country—are being heated more comfortably and at less cost with the Caloric pipeless furnace.

The Caloric delivers practically 100% of the heat from the fuel directly into your rooms, and at the same time withdraws the cool air from the building. This establishes a natural air circulation, with the result that the building is heated more uniformly and fuel consumption is cut 1/3 to 1/2. There are now

OVER 135,000 CALORIC USERS

—in every state in the Union, in Canada, Alaska—and many in this locality.

Here a word of warning. Caloric success has been so revolutionary that it has aroused opposition from those who profit from making and selling out-of-date heating systems. The result is that many imitation pipeless furnaces have been put out which are failures. Be not misled by these failures. Most of them were designed to be failures—and have been marketed in vain attempts to discredit the rapidly-growing Caloric idea.

Five Passenger

Just a Ride—Before You Buy Any Car

With all the noted qualities of the Essex chassis, the Coach combines closed car utility, comfort and distinction, at an unrivalled price.

Note how little more it costs than the open car. That is made possible by great production. More Essex Coaches are now built than any other fine closed car.

You must see, examine and drive it to realize what is offered at this price.

The type of body construction is the newest. It gives a durable, comfortable type, of appealing distinction. But, perhaps more important, is the far quieter car that results. The Essex Coach construction absorbs and annuls practically all "drumming" noises of the closed compartment.

And the Coach is a product that will endure in good, useful service for years. Come see, and drive it before you buy any car.

FAILURE OF

accomplished.

2. As the failure of their efforts at Genoa were seen British statesmen set out to regain the favor they had lost in American eyes by their maneuverings. In consequence they have made a great concession to American policy by admitting that Americans have equal rights in Palestine with all other nationals. This was a concession which had been stubbornly refused by the London foreign office for more than two years Having made it, Britain will be compelled to make the concession in other lands taken from Germany.

3. America has now insisted that her policy towards Russia shall be recognized by the agreement of all nations not to seek special advantages from the present revolutionary government; but to keep hands off the riches of that great land until a government by the people shall be installed

4. France is coming around to the proposition we have urged for more than two years, that German industry be allowed to borrow money for reconstruction under mortgages which shall take precedence of reparations payments insted of being put behind them.

Ready To Listen Now

These are highly significant signs. They show beyond doubt the direction in which the winds of international politics are blowing. It was the intention of the smart statesmen to draw us into the conference in the beginning, but their purpose was to involve us so that our money would be set flowing towards Europe along the channels they had mapped out and to be used in the way they had decided was best for their own interests. Now they have found they must be prepared to sacrifice some of their selfish ideas, that they must listen to our counsel and give real liberties to peoples and equal chances to all. And, once having turned in our direction, they will listen more and more respectfully.

Of the utmost importance is the British agreement to give America an equal voice in the mandated territories. My readers will recall that from time to time I have pointed out the seriousness of the dispute between the two nations on this question.

Two elements entered into it. Britain, France and Japan agreed at the Paris conference to the division of the conquered territory under mandates, but in drawing these mandates for the Council of the League of Nations they gave themselves practical sovereignty over the various territories Later the other question developed; since the United States had not accepted the Treaty of Versailles under which the mandates were created, it therefore had no voice in them

Wilson Started The Fight

It was President Wilson, curiously, who started the fight against these two ideas. All was in readiness at the first meeting of the League of Nations to put thru the mandates and shut out this country while the others divided the spoils. But Mr. Wilson, having seen the senate reject the Versailles treaty, set out to prevent the imperial nations having their own way He gave notice that the United States by reason of its participation in the war had a right to a voice in the disposition of all the conquered lands, and held up the whole mandate question.

Mr. Hughes took up this issue just as Mr. Wilson left it and did not deviate from the position thus defined. The British stubbornly resisted and were backed by the other imperial nations.

The first breach in the solid alignment against us was made at the Washington conference. In the Yap treaty Japan gave in, not only to our insistence on rights to establish a cable and wireless station on the island, but to our claim to equal rights in all the other islands north of the Equator which had been taken from Germany. Immediately after the Washington conference Mr. Hughes began to press the British and French to recognize our rights in the vastly greater territories which these two nations had taken over.

The test case was made in Palestine. Here the British had undertaken first of all to get a monopoly of the prospective oil lands Mr Hughes took the position that American interests had just as much right as the British to prospect and buy up lands Lord Curzon, the British Foreign Minister, resisted this idea with all his great ability But as the British at Genoa saw that Britain was not to gain her ends and that she would need our friendship more than ever a retreat was made, as quietly and gracefully as possible.

Vast Possessions Affected

Having given way in the one case, Britain cannot now refuse to give way in the others The American principle will be made to apply to Mesopotamia, to the African territories taken from Germany and to islands south of the Equator, some of which are extremely important. Having admitted it in the mandates, and having but recently conceded the same "open door" idea in China, it will be exceedingly difficult for even the astute statesmen of London to find an excuse for proceeding on any other lines in the treatment of Russia, Persia and other backward nations

Thus another great victory has been won for the American principle of the "Open Door." We have now extended it to all the continents except Europe and the failure of the Genoa conference paves the way for its extension there. We will have to break down many monopolies which Britain and France have erected in that continent since the war, but since they have found at Genoa that they can do nothing without the help of the United States, and that we will not countenance their selfish, imperial schemes, it is likely that we shall soon see a disposition on the part of both to give way and permit us to help the various peoples get on their feet and become really independent.

There are various voices raised in Europe to say our purposes are selfish and that we are only aiming to put our money in position to make us a great capitalistic empire. But there is also a great understanding among the people of our desire to be really helpful. The vast sums we have spent in succor have not gone unappreciated In a copy of a Bulgarian newspaper I recently ran across a war appreciation of what we had done and a bit of sturdy advice to Bulgaria to put her house in order, with assurance that when she had done so she could rely on help from this country to restore herself.

Lloyd George's Downfall.

Perhaps some of my readers have considered in the past that I have dealt rather roughly with Lloyd George and his ways. The incident which caused the collapse at Genoa, however, amply vindicates anything heretofore written. A great cynic once said "The British imperial statesman stands with one hand raised to high heaven calling on God to witness the purity of his motives and with the other hand in someone's pockets."

It was in an attitude very much like the one described that Lloyd George was caught He had been proclaiming loudly that Britain was striving only for peace, that she was balked in this high endeavor by the selfishness of others. Because a great many people seemed to believe him he was able to pound the French and other delegates into agreement on a formula whereby Russia was to be recognized and traded with.

This formula was very innocent on the face of it. Since the Soviet Government would not recognize rights of property, it was asked to recognize that former foreign owners of property should have the right of use thereof This applied particularly to oil concessions. Everybody had given assent to this provision and it was all ready to be presented to the Russians.

Then something happened. A correspondent of the New York World at Genoa, Samuel Spewack, got the news that the British had undertaken to make a secret agreement with the Soviet for a monopoly of Russian oil This formula was examined again In it was found a provision that while use of property was to be restored to former owners, yet all such property might be merged into larger units, in other words, if the British got a monopoly they could absorb all the holdings of other foreigners and make them minority stockholders

Discredited The British

When it was realized what the British were driving at Belgium rebelled. She refused to permit her oil holdings to pass under British control. France supported her. They made the old welkin ring with their denunciations of British trickery, and, despite all sorts of diplomatic denials, they make it stick. When that had been accomplished all the high professions of Lloyd George became ludicrous; and with him and his delegation discredited the conference naturally collapsed.

Lloyd George must now go home to face his people without the triumph he wanted as his means of re-electing another Parliament pledged to him. He had to have a great triumph. There is much discouragement in the country and much distress. Great lords are having to close their mansions because they cannot afford to go on entertaining Great estates are being broken up and sold at bargain prices The middle class is bowed down with taxes All classes are angered over the hundreds of millions the Lloyd George government has wasted in its imperialistic and Socialistic adventures.

At this moment Dean Inge, one of the great churchmen, creates a sensation by blurting out that Britain can never again expect to be the arbiter of the world, that the power has passed to the United States and she can hope to have a share in world rulership only by depending on this country.

Moreover the British public have seen their premier treated with scant respect. Poincare of France has openly defied him to his worst. The Soviet delegates have made fun of him. Even some of the smaller fry have not been afraid of him. And the British do not like that. When the election comes, as it must come soon, they will take occasion to show their feelings.

Common Sense About Eczema and Eruptions!

Here's Something About S. S. S. That You'll Be Glad to Hear.

You might just as well know it right now,—the cause of skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, boils and so on, is right in the blood. There is no getting away from it. Science has proved it. We prove it. You can prove it.

When the cause of skin troubles and eruptions is in the blood, it isn't common sense to simply treat the skin. A bottle of S. S. S. will prove to you what is happening in your blood. S.S.S. is a scientific blood cleanser,—it drives out the impurities which cause eczema, tetter, rash, pimples, boils, blackheads, blotches and other skin eruptions. When these impurities are driven out, you can't stop several very nice things from happening. Your lips turn naturally rosy. Your eyes sparkle, your complexion clears. It becomes beautiful. Your face looks like that of a prosperous, ruddy, well-fed, refined gentleman, or if you are a woman, your complexion becomes the real kind that the whole world so admires. S S S. is also a powerful body-builder, because it builds new and more blood-cells. That's why it fills out sunken cheeks, bony necks, thin limbs, helps regain lost flesh. It costs little to have this happen to you. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

Let S. S. S. Give You An Angelic Skin!

BETTY'S PEEK INTO A STRANGE LAND.

"OH, dear, I wish we didn't have so many skirts in the wash," sighed Betty, as she ran the iron over the fluffy white thing on the ironing-board. "It's such a nuisance to iron them all."

"Oh, pshaw!" laughed a merry voice, and a tiny elfin, no larger than Betty's big doll, jumped upon the ironing-board beside her. "Why, if you were a little girl I know you might have cause to complain. Here you folks have to wear only one or two skirts, but this little friend of mine—well, you wouldn't believe it if you didn't see it for yourself—"

Before Betty could say a word she felt herself sailing through the air beside the little elfin.

"Well, Gocomeback!" laughed Betty, as they once more settled on the ground. "You certainly can cover more miles in a short time than any one I know. Now, do tell me what is this queer place? Is this where your little friend lives? Where are we, anyway?"

"My goodness!" laughed the elfin. "One question at a time! Yes, this is where lives the little maid of many skirts, my wee Nepalese friend."

"Oh, so the mountains we just passed over were the Himalaya mountains then," cried Betty. "Why, isn't that funny, that's our geography lesson for tomorrow! Isn't it—"

"Well, Gocomeback!"

But just then a queer little bundle floated toward them, and when it stopped in front of Gocomeback, Betty saw a pair of sparkling brown eyes and a tuft of dark hair.

"My goodness!" Betty exclaimed when Gocomeback introduced her to the little Nepalese lady. "Gocomeback said you wore many skirts, but I never looked for—"

"Quite so many!" laughed the little lady. "Oh, dear me, and I am nothing to compare with some of my friends. Why, some of them wear a hundred yards of goods plaited this way into skirts," and she turned around so Betty could get a better view of her gown.

The fine muslin skirt of many, many yards was plaited to make a great bunch in front, while the back was pulled quite tight. Her waist—sort of a tight-fitting velvet jacket—was of a brilliant scarlet, and it made her dark hair, which she wore in a tight knot above her forehead, look almost like jet.

Betty couldn't help but admire this little beauty, but when she looked at the terribly-full skirts she shook her head.

"The more skirts we wear the finer we are dressed in Nepal," said the little maid. "Why, today is nothing—on a festive day I have two dozen skirts which I wear all at once."

At this Betty laughed right out loud, and, quick as a wink, the little maid in the many skirts disappeared, and Gocomeback vanished also, and Betty found herself again at the ironing-board.

"Well," Betty laughed to herself, "One at a time is enough for me, and humming merrily, Betty finished her ironing.

'WOBBLES' DELIGHTS SMALL AUDIENCE AT FRESNO FRIDAY

The Coshocton high school class play entitled "Wobbles" delighted a small audience in the Fresno opera house, Friday evening. The attendance was small owing to the inclement weather.

The audience appreciated the show from every standpoint and gave the cast a big reception. In addition to the play, a few reels of comic moving pictures were shown between acts.

An orchestra of six pieces played for the show. The music was splendid and the audience freely applauded the musicians. The orchestra played several selections.

Each member in the "Wobbles" cast did his part well and the play went over in professional style.

The orchestra was composed of Francis Siegrist, saxophone; Virginia McKee, piano; Helen Rosenberger, and Thelma Bradford, violinists; Raymond Hay, banjo-mandolin and Cecil Ford, drums.

The "Wobbles" cast included the same members of the "Green Stockings" cast that played at the Coshocton high school two weeks ago.

DEMPSEY NOW WANTS AN AMERICAN WIFE; LATEST PROSPECT DENVER GIRL

NEW YORK, May 20.—"An American girl for me for a wife," Jack Dempsey said shortly after his arrival from France, in answer to questions about his humored marriage. "European girls know too much about men to suit me." During his visit to Paris Dempsey declared he wanted a French girl for a wife.

Edith Rockwell, of Denver, 19 years old, red haired, weight 134 pounds, is to be the future wife of the ring champion, according to his own confession. "Sometime between now and Christmas, after I get other business out of the way, the wedding bells will ring for Miss Rockwell and myself," said Dempsey. "And I shall be the happiest man in the world. I want everyone to know about it. Many of my friends had different movie stars as my future wife, but none of it for me.'

Miss Rockwell is now attending Boulder College. Dempsey asserts he has known her for several years and that the engagement has been kept secret for some time.

"She is a dandy girl and will make me a peach of a wife. A home, nice wife, and twelve kids is my idea of domestic happiness," Dempsey concluded.

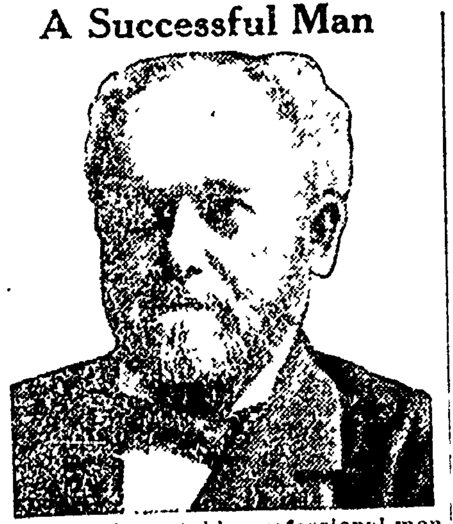
A Successful Man



Among the notable professional men of this country who achieved great success along strictly legitimate lines was Dr. R. V. Pierce. Devoting his attention to the specialty of women's diseases, he became a recognized authority in that line.

Over fifty years ago this noted physician gave to the world a Prescription which has never been equaled for the weaknesses of women. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all thru treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening pains, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it in both tablet and liquid form.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. Write for free medical advice.

LAFOLLETTE PREDICTS BIRTH OF NEW PARTY INCLUDING CONSUMER, LABORER AND FARMER IN LEAGUE

By J. BART CAMPBELL

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Senator Robert M. La Follette—"Battling Bob" as he is known to those who admire and respect a fighter—is of the opinion that the farmer, the wage earner and the consumer—the great masses of the "common people"—will ultimately be brought together under the standard of a great "Third Party."

Senator William E Borah is another Progressive Republican who believes that sooner than present political conditions seem to indicate a "Third Party" will emerge from the vast rural and urban population of the country

"For more than a quarter of a century 'big business' combinations have suppressed competition, acquired a monopoly control of prices, squeezed the farmers, plundered the consumers and, to the limit of their power to do so, have oppressed the wage earners in every branch of industry." Senator La Follette said.

"To meet the organized power of the enoromus aggregations of capital engaged in 'big business' the wage earners have, in the face of bitter opposition, endeavored to organize to the end that they might co-operate and bargain collectively with their employers They have been only partly successful. Only a small minority are organized

"And the farmers have likewise sought to secure in the same way some measure of relief from the oppression of monopoly They have attempted defensive organizations for precisely the same reasons that labor has sought to organize.

"The individual, be he farmer wage earner or consumer, is utterly helpless under existing conditions He cannot stand alone against organized business combinations. The farmer, the laborer and the consumer have commo ninterests. They are alike exploited by the privileged monopolies.

Unemployment Causes Depression

"The farmers have a large and very direct interest in seeing that wage earners and the men and women throughout the nation who are working on salaries are all constantly employed under teh most favorable conditions They constitute the great body of the farmer's market for all his staples. When millions of workers are unemployed, when the purchasing power of tens of millions of those who are employed is unduly curtailed, it is inevitable that the market for everything the farmer produces suffers the greatest depression.

"While the war was on the people blindly accepted the mounting costs of living as a part of the war burden. There was no time to investigate its cause, no facts upon which to determine its justice.

"But when the war was over and prices continued to soar, when living cost 25 per cent more in 1919 than in 1918, and 1920 cost 17 per cent more than 1919, the limit of forbearance had been reached. The storm broke. The American people demanded that the robbers who were plundering the public be called to account.

"And the robbers were ready to raise the cry of 'Stop thief!' and lead an indignant public off on a false trail.

"They raised a great hue and cry against labor. They claimed that the unions had forced enormous wage advances, and that this had lifted the general wage level and thus caused the unprecedented increase in prices.

"There is not the slightest chance that those chargeable with the economic wrongs which the public suffers will be justly punished, but at least the responsibility snould be placed where it belongs.

Statistics Are Cited.

"I lay down certain propositions which are economically true and admit of no denial:

"1. The nominal increase in wages has been uniformly less than the increase in the cost of living each year since the war.

"2. The nominal increase in wages has followed and not preceded the increase in the cost of living.

"3. Whatever nominal increase there has been in wages since the outbreak of the European War in 1914 has been forced by the increased cost of living, unjustly imposed upon the public by the war profiteers. Wage advances have been one of the effects of high prices and not the cause of high prices.

"A table compiled by the United States Department of Labor conclusively establishes these propositions and shows in the most graphic manner how far behind the cost of living the wages of union labor trailed even during and since the war period when 'high' wages have prevailed.

"The comparsion is made with 100 as the base in 1913.

Year	Union Wage Rate	Cost of Living
1913	100	100
1914	102	103
1915	102	105.1
1916	106	118.3
1917	112	142.4
1918	130	174.4
1919	148	199.3
1920	189	216.5

"The peak was reached in 1920, with the wages of union labor showing an increase of 89 per cent and the cost of living an increase of 116 per cent over 1913.

"Not once during the period from 1913 to 1920 did the wages received by organized labor breast the steadily mounting costs of living. Wage advances lagged behind, and far behind, price advances

"Real Wages Have Declined."

'In fact real wages have actually declined for more than twenty years, when measured in the purchasing power of the earnings of labor.

"In a critical study of the relation between wages and the increased cost of living Professor William Jett Lauck, the ecomomist, made an analysis for the years 1912 to 1918, inclusive, of the financial reports of all corporations having an annual income of $1,000,000 or more in the lines of business in which the ordinary consumer is particularly interested as reported in Moody's and Poor's

"Labor has struggled to maintain old standards of living and it has lost in the struggle.

"Nominal wages may be high, but real wages are low.

"The total earnings of a laborer at the end of the week will buy less food and clothing and fuel to-day than it would buy before the war. financial manuals

"These corporations were shown to have taken $800,000,000 more in annual profits on the average for the years 1916, 1917 and 1918 than for the three year period of 1912, 1913 and 1914, and the figures for production showed conclusively that the increased profits were not due to increased production They were due to the fact that the corporation took a larger proportion of every dollar spent by the purchaser.

"The corporations, typical of the practices of all, nearly trebled their average net income on capital stock during the period covered by Professor Lauck's studies.

"That they have continued to fleece the public, the increased prices for 1919, 1920, 1921 and the present year conclusively prove.

"These great profiteering organizations in every line of business raised prices until the people could no longer meet their extortionate demands They were confronted with the alternative of reducing their profits or cutting the wages of labor. They turned upon labor.

"For more than a year they have been making war on labor unions and charging labor with responsibility for high living costs.

"This attack on labor will fail. There will be great hardships and suffering, but in the end the truth will prevail. Labor will be vindicated and will come out of the battle with a solidarity welded in the fire of common suffering, a greater fighting force in the eternal struggle between the masses and the privileged monopoly."

Judge Sets Precedent For Insurance Claims

SEATTLE, May 20—In a decision that may become the established precedent in the disposition of millions of dollars of war risk insurance, Federal Judge Jeremia Neterer recently ruled that the will of a soldier killed in action should be followed with regard to disposition of property or designation of beneficiary.

Irene Claffy, sixteen years old, niece of Clarence Swank, killed in the Meuse-Argonne advance, is by the terms of the decision entitled to collect approximately $9,000, the remainder of a $10,000 policy in favor of Swank's mother, Malinda Swank, who died shortly after her son was killed. Irene was named as beneficiary, in event of the death of his mother, by a letter from Swank dated July 15, 1918

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

What Tom Chester Brought to Lillian's Attention.

TOM CHESTER'S voice, as he told us that he had something interesting to show us when he should have put away the ladder, betrayed the excitement he was evidently striving hard to suppress.

I realized that unconsciously he was modelling his demeanor upon Lillian's, trying to emulate her poise and coolness, her "poker face" and voice devoid of expression which she uses when there is anything unusually important on hand. But he was too young, too filled with boyish enthusiasm to be successful in his imitation, and Lillian nudged me gleefully when he had gone to the barn to return the ladder he had used in climbing to the roof, and was safely out of earshot.

"Bless his heart!" she said maternally. "He's so excited underneath that he can hardly keep from waving his arms and shouting. But he'd die before he'd admit it. Isn't that blase exterior delicious?"

Madge Makes a Suggestion.

"More than that," I returned, trying to answer Lillian in kind.

But to my surprise I found myself secretly criticising her tone and manner, wondering if they were not a bit supercilious when characterizing Tom Chester's honest young enthusiasm. It was the first time that such a thought of Lillian's attitude had ever crossed my mind, and it was but an instant before the revulsion came, and I was scoring myself savagely for my disloyalty to my friend, hoping tremulously that her keen insight had not guessed my thought.

I could tell nothing from her voice, however, when next she spoke, for all it apparently held was reflective curiosity.

"He found something of Smith's, of course, up there on the roof, something from which he probably thinks I can interpret the strawberry mark on the left shoulder. I hope, for his sake, as well as the investigation in general, that it's something really worth while, but—I hae me doots. Smith's altogether too cagy an individual to carry anything incriminating about with him."

"But, don't you think—" I began diffidently, hesitating, for I feared that Lillian would deem absurd the thought which had struck me.

"Go ahead. Spill it," she said, and in the wavering gleam of the flashlight I saw that the face she turned to me was attentive.

"Smith is so very conceited and arrogant," I faltered, "that I thought he might have conceived some plan for keeping reference data about him which he would figure no one could interpret but himself."

"Reading Glasses!"

"That's very true," she said heartily, "and if he has been fool enough to violate the first rule of crookdom, I hope the boy has it. Hush! Here he comes. He's simply bursting, he's so surcharged with mystery and importance. We won't say a word, just let him stage his little drama in his own way."

There was such genuine kindliness in her tone that I flushed in the darkness for my disloyal mental criticism of her. And then Tom Chester had joined us, and we made our way back into the living-room and drew our chairs close to the cheery, leaping flames in the fireplace.

"If you don't mind, Mrs. Graham, I'll get a glass of water," Tom Chester said. "No, indeed," as I started to rise. "I can help myself. Shall I bring either of you a glass?"

He walked abruptly out of the room at our negative, and I saw Lillian's eyebrows knit slightly, and knew that his subterfuge, for it was patently such, had puzzled her. Evidently young Mr. Chester's little drama needed a preliminary examination of its properties.

When he came back he drew from his pocket a small dark object, and handed it to Lillian with an echo of the remark he had made when coming down the ladder:

"I think you will find this of interest, Mrs. Underwood."

She took it from his extended hand without comment, and I saw that it was an eyeglass case, the finest and costliest of its kind. Lillian turned it over in her hands, examining it carefully, opened it, took out the eyeglasses which it contained, scrutinized them, then rose, walked swiftly to the reading table, spread a newspaper over it, and moved the glasses rapidly around, looking through them the while.

"Reading glasses!" she commented. "See how the letters flash out. If you had long-distance glasses here, you'd see what I mean."

She held up the glasses to her eyes as if fitting them, then lowered them to her lap again.

"Reading glasses," she said. "Now, why would he be carrying reading glasses around on an acrobatic stunt like this? There's something behind this. Can you figure out the answer, Mr. Chester?"

Tom Chester took up the eyeglasses with fingers that I saw trembled perceptibly, and pulled at the lining.

"Look!" he said dramatically.

THE CAPTIVE

CUPID and "his gang"—what prodigies they perform! No matter how fast one runs, they run faster. No matter how eagerly one strives to escape, they are more eager to capture. Once in their hands there is no escape, struggle as hard as one may. And yet, how strong are the struggles—how purposeful is the effort to get free? For who—when once the captive of TRUE love—would be free again?

YOUR HEALTH

How to Help a Shut-In Get Well and Strong Again

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City

DR. COPELAND

SOONER or later sickness comes to every household. You may be one of the fortunate ones. You and yours may have escaped the physical tax-collector. But he is on the way, and while it is unwise to dwell on thoughts which are painful, nevertheless, it is wise to take stock now and then. How can you manage your home when illness comes?

In every house there is at least one pleasant room. Too many times it is carefully protected from common use. The shades are drawn and the furniture is covered to protect it from desecrating dust.

Such a "parlor" as this is enough to drive the children into the street. No room in the house should be too good to use.

It may seem to you almost sacrilege to think of turning the parlor into a sick-room. But it may be just the place for the poor shut-in, the chronic invalid or the convalescent patient.

It is bad enough for any one of us to be shut in for a single one of the lovely days of springtime. How much worse is it for the unfortunates who are obliged to spend a whole season in bed!

You can lighten the burdens of the invalid by placing his bed or chair near the window. Here he has glimpses of the outside world. He can watch the swelling buds and the growth of the leaves. He can see the green grass and the flowers.

Without something of human interest life is dull and sad. We need to see our neighbors and the other members of the community. We should have things to think about instead of our own infirmities.

The sick-room should be made as attractive as possible. A few inexpensive things will add to its charm. Dainty curtains, pretty pictures, a plant, a basket of fruit—these things will hold the eye and tempt the palate.

The open window and the sunshine give the invalid the fresh air so essential to his recovery.

If it were purely a matter of economy, the shut-in would be given these surroundings. His recovery will be hastened by such attention.

Keep the patient in a dark and gloomy room, with no sunshine and nothing to do but to count the figures on the wall-paper, and his disease will drag along indefinitely. Keep a patient in such a place and he loses heart. When he falls into that frame of mind which believes recovery is impossible and that nobody cares, you have an obstinate and difficult case to cure. To be shut in for three months is to develop habits of mind and body which are hard to overcome.

Cheerfulness, human interest, sunshine and fresh air contribute wonderfully to recovery.

It is remarkable how bed-ridden or house-ridden one can become. If withdrawal from the world is complete, it is difficult to drag one's self back to the routine of the old life. Speedy recovery follows if the human touch is permitted to do its part.

Add these fine helps to the services of your family doctor.

Answers to Health Questions

A. H. L. Q—For the past few years I have been suffering with an intense itch in both of my ears. The pain is so intense and ticklish at times that I am compelled to use a toothpick, match or penholder in my ear. Will you please tell me how I can stop this itching?

A—This is usually due to a slight catarrhal condition, involving the tube running from the ear to the nose. In such cases, inflating the ears by holding the nose, closing the mouth and blowing will open the tube and relieve the symptoms. In other cases, there is a slight irritation of the skin lining the external canal of the ear. Scratching the ear with a toothpick or penholder is harmful. Instead of doing this, apply a little oxide of zinc ointment to the itching part.

A. P. Q—Kindly tell me how I can change the color of my hair from dark brown to black without injuring it.

A—I do not know of anything which would change the color of your hair without injuring it.

A READER. Q—I expect to enter a training school for nurses. Is it necessary that I learn to drink milk? I do not care for it.

A—There is no need to drink milk if it is distasteful to you, but it is a very fine food.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Real Royalty

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

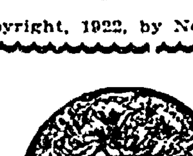

Winifred Black

THE man whose wife is in a sanatorium and is not at all likely to come out again, is looking for a housekeeper.

He doesn't want just a cook, or just a nurse, or just a seamstress, or just a mother.

He wants a woman of education, refinement, tact, character and experience—not too young and not too old—not clever enough to be restless, and not stupid enough to be lazy, not ugly enough to be embittered, and not pretty enough to be vain.

He wants her to be educated and well-bred, and he wants her to cook and wash dishes, and sweep and dust, and mend and rock the baby to sleep, and scold the oldest boy and curl the little girl's hair and be ready to preside at the table when he comes home at night.

For all these things, he offers in exchange—$60 a month, a rather uncomfortable room and fair to medium board.

And he is amazed and aggrieved, because nobody has come to take the place.

"What is the matter with the women?" he says. "Isn't there a woman left in the world who appreciates a good home?

How Much They Expect!

"Are they all crazy about office work? What's the great fascination about a typewriter and a desk?"

And he really thinks that the country is going to the dogs and if it does, he'll blame the women for it.

I wonder if he would expect to get a man of education, refinement, tact, character and experience—young enough to be active and enthusiastic, and old enough to be steady and reliable, clever enough to be quick and well-balanced enough to be reasonable, good-looking, neat, smart in his dress, well-mannered, intelligent, ambitious and efficient—all for $60 a month and board. Would he, especially if he wanted the man to tend the furnace and sift the ashes, and wash the windows and beat the rugs, and press his clothes and lay out his collars and ties, and drive his car and cook his dinner, and take his dictation on the typewriter and manage his business for him, all at once?

How much they do expect of us women—these men!

I wonder if we haven't spoiled them, just the least little bit in the world.

That man whose wife is in the sanatorium—did she try to do all these things he wants the housekeeper to do and wasn't she even paid $60 a month for her time and her work and her energy?

How many women are there in this country today who are doing just exactly this kind of thing and whose husbands think they are unreasonable if they dare to hint at a separate allowance.

Money—to pay for such service as this!

There isn't money enough in the world to do it—not if you looted all the banks and dug out all the gold mines!

Love, devotion, the sense of protection, home and the joys of home—ah, yes, for these, the right sort of woman will do a thousand times these things and do them with a song in her heart and a smile on her lips!

Crowns Are Deserved

I'm afraid though that the gentleman who is looking for a housekeeper will have to make up his mind to get a good cook and a fairly efficient nurse, or else to send his children away to school.

Yet, there are hundreds of women in every big city who work for a living downtown and cook and mend, and wash and iron, and keep a home together for their children in the bargain.

I never see one of them without wishing I could take off my hat and stand bareheaded to let her pass.

They are the real royalty of this earth and if they don't wear crowns sometime, somewhere, then there is something wrong about the whole system.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

The Way to Take Intelligent Care of Fine Rugs.

NO other single outlay in house furnishing represents more money than rugs, and, therefore, they should have consistent care. We usually buy the best we can afford, selected with as good taste as we possess, and then proceed to neglect them. We allow careless help to shake them out of windows, drag them over the sills, loosen the bindings, snarl the fringe and utterly overlook spots which should be taken care of, or we leave them on the floor with little brushing, until sand and dirt grind into the fibre and cut the weave.

It is time housewives waked up. We may not all be able to own real Persian, Chinese, Turkish or other fine rugs, but we can make the best we can afford last a long time and look well by continually bestowing upon them the care they should have. Every rug of any value at all should be lifted on June first, and, after proper care, be stowed away until at least the middle of September, in city homes where dust is rampant.

All small rugs should be placed on grass, snow or a smooth floor and the dirt should be beaten out by a flat beater. They should then be swept on both sides, and all spots should be removed. Next, place the rugs on a laundry table and scrub them with lukewarm water and white soap. Rinse with clean water applied with soft cloths, then dry with dry cloths, and throw the rugs over a line to dry, as the water remains some time if the pile of the rug is deep and thick.

If the rug is a cheap one, it may lose shape in cleaning. To avoid this it may be tacked on a clean floor or table to measure, and be held with thumb tacks. Should moth holes, burns or deep stains remain on the rug, causing the threads to break away, it is wise to send the rug to a professional mender, who will repair the spots, making them look like new. Many large rug shops and other stores employ Armenian rug-menders for just this service to customers, and the expense is not serious for the work. The vacuum cleaner keeps rugs in good shape without the trouble of lifting big ones from the floor or the danger to rugs caused by poor handling. Many ink and other spots respond to heavy coverings of salt, which is swept off and replenished until the spot disappears. Sometimes chloroform is used, again spirits of ammonia or some special preparation for stubborn cases.

If a rug must be darned at home, do it with matching wool, using a darning stitch. Again, a small piece of burlap may be set underneath the hole, and if the rug is small it may be stitched on the sewing machine, or by a nearby tailor, who will accommodate for a consideration. Then, the darning may be done over this foundation, smoothly. If fringe is pulling off, remove it entirely, and turn under a fold of the rug, lay the fringe back, and have a tailor or rug man stitch it back into place, or bind it with rug-webbing that matches.

All rugs past their prime, ragged and shabby in appearance, all carpets that are faded and threadbare in spots, should be bundled up and sent off to the weavers, who will clean them and make them over into the popular rag-carpet runners, which do nicely for upper halls, bedrooms and bathrooms. Some women buy black, gray, tan, red or other solid-colored carpet, two or three yards, and send with the old carpets to make bright, fresh borders, which greatly improve the appearance of the rugs. The outlay is not serious, and it pays in the end.

Rugs that are to be stored for the summer should be thoroughly cleaned and carefully mended first. If they are to be stored at home they should be sprinkled with rug powder or moth destroyer and rolled on a pole. They should be wrapped in tar or moth paper. They should be placed in a dry place, as cool a place as the house affords. If the rugs are sent to cold storage they should be cleaned first, assurance of which should be demanded of the storage people before turning over the rugs to their care.

It is not ordinary wear that shortens the life of a fine rug, but abuse and lack of understanding care. Every one may learn how to care for rugs, as there are books in all libraries on the subject, and rug men are always glad to give whatever information they can.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of 19. I am married, and I love my husband dearly, and he loves me, too, but sometimes he quarrels with me and says he is going to leave me.

Will you please advise me what to do, and also what can I do to make him happy?

Do you think it is right for him to quarrel about a young man I went with before I met him?

UNHAPPY WIFE.

UNHAPPY WIFE: Try to be as sweet and calm with your husband as you possibly can. When he starts to quarrel with you, make up your mind that you will not quarrel with him. You know it takes two to quarrel.

No, my dear, he should not worry about a young man whom you knew before he met you. Tell him that it makes you unhappy, and you wish he would not do it. Convince your husband that you love only him, and that you have no interest whatever, even in the memory of this other man.

Remember it takes two to start an argument. Hold onto yourself when anything unpleasant comes up, and try to turn the conversation into other channels. In this way you should avoid quarreling and be very happy.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a happy girl 19 years of age, and am very popular with the young people. I am invited to all their parties, and always have a wonderful time whenever I go. But there's one thing that worries me, and it's this: I have no place where I can give parties or entertain any one. I always hate to accept invitations because I know I cannot return their kindness by having them at my home. I have turned down several invitations asking me to join girls' clubs for the same reason.

There is another thing which gives me a great deal of worry. There is one young man especially for whom I care. He lives out-of-town, and comes from a family with a good deal of money. I have had several dates with him, but as I have nowhere to take him after we have either been to some one's home or to the show, I have refused him several dates. He always wants to know the reason, and I do not know what to tell him. He likes me, I know, and always treats me wonderfully. Now, will you please tell me what I can do in these cases?

BIRDIE.

BIRDIE: I would not be sensitive about accepting invitations if I were you, my dear, because you cannot return them. People want you for yourself and not for what you can give them. You can make up for what you may feel obligated to do by being a very true and loyal friend to those who are kind to you. This means more to a real person than all the entertainments in the world.

Tell the young man the truth and make no excuses. It will be much easier in the end. He will like you and respect you far more than if you had made some foolish pretense.

Go ahead and enjoy yourself, my dear, and perhaps after a while you will have your own home and then you can entertain your friends and show them how you have appreciated what they have done for you.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her, in care of this office.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Describes an Afternoon Costume Embroidered in Steel Rings.

"MORE and better clothes is to be my slogan from now on," declared Veronica, throwing herself into a chair in the mannikin room and beginning to sketch madly.

"Whatever has come over you so suddenly?" I asked.

"Well, I've always adored clothes," she fired back at me.

"Of course you have," I assented. "But I've often heard you say that if you had stacks of money you wouldn't spend as much of it on clothes as many of Madame's clients do."

"I still maintain that, but you lost the inference," she answered.

"You mean that you'd plan them more carefully?" I asked for enlightenment.

"Of course," she replied in a more modified tone. "I thought you were too bright to miss my point."

"Why are you in such a touchy mood?" I asked, feeling that she was approachable enough now to risk this.

"Oh, because I've seen so many attractive things lately that I've started sketching them hastily into a notebook."

"I should think that would be lots of fun and give you pleasant things to think about," I observed.

"I've just counted up, and there are thirteen new costumes I covet," she remarked. "Look at this last one."

"Wanting thirteen at once does make a big order," I agreed, taking the sketch.

"What a stunning three-piece costume!" I exclaimed. "Tell me what it is."

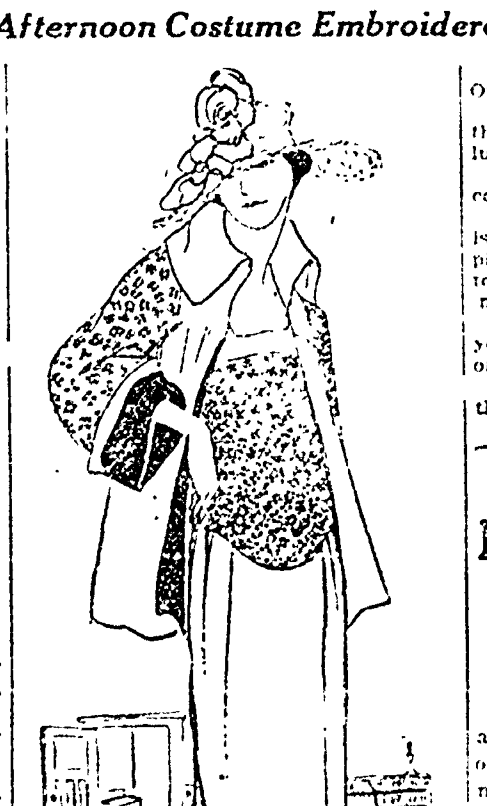
"The material is crepe," Veronica explained. "It's caramel color with touches of the most heavenly blue."

"What are these little discs that give the coat-of-mail idea?" I asked.

"Oh, they are the newest things from Paris," she answered. "They are little steel rings sewed on with thread to match the blue."

"I think they are awfully clever on the bodice and sleeves, so that the effect of the whole is given when the coat is on," I said.

"Yes," she agreed. "You see, the bodice sleeves, themselves, are plain, and, after all, one wears the jacket with a costume of this kind more than one leaves it off."



Blue-and-Caramel Crepe Makes Up This Stunning Three-Piece Suit.

"I think so, too," I said. "While the one-piece dress is very smart in the house, if you go to tea or calling you'd hardly bother to take off the jacket."

"The hat looks lacy and attractive. Of what material is it?" I asked.

"Blue lace," Veronica replied. "And the roses in front are of the most luscious caramel shade."

"It gives quite a dressy finish to the costume," I observed.

"The beauty of an outfit of this kind is that it can be made to give either the plainer or more dressy effect, according to the hat worn with it," Veronica said in her enthusiastic way.

"From your recommendations I'd think you were trying to sell it to me, instead of coveting it for yourself," I observed.

"But I can only afford one of the thirteen," Veronica pouted.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, MAY 21-22.

Sunday's horoscope holds encouraging aspects for those in the employment of others, or those desiring favors or recognition from superiors. Otherwise, the auguries are not propitious. Protect the health and avoid accident.

Those whose birthday it is have the promise of a good year in the employment of others, but they should care for the health and shun possibility of accident. A child born on this day will have a tendency to be rash, impulsive and careless.

Monday's astrological map warns against any speculation or risk of money and enjoins that all remain quiet and industrious. The sages say that "young widows will have offers of marriage."

Those whose birthday it is should endeavor to spend a quiet year, avoiding all risk of money, especially in speculation. A child born on this day is liable to be careless and extravagant in its habits unless carefully trained early in life. It may succeed best in the employment of others, and may rise in life.

Buckeye Brevities Gathered By I. N. S.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, May 20. — Belmont county's bank roll is just double what it was a year ago, according to Deputy County Treasurer E. M Wilkes who said there is a balance of $850,000 left out of receipts amounting to $3,040,000 during the past year, compared with $428,000 left last year.

ELYRIA, May 20. — Resolutions, adopted by the Sheffield Grange, contain the request that members of the state legislature use their influence towards obtaining a reduction in the amount of taxes levied upon property, especially for school and health purposes. Property owners, it is claimed have no voice in these matters. The resolutions recommend that each local district be allowed to manage its school and health matters.

MIDDLEPORT, May 20 — The first inter-city Kiwanis Club in this part of the country has been installed here and at Pomeroy. The membership of the organization is about equally divided between the two towns. Meetings will be held in each town alternately.

McARTHUR, May 20. — Names of five women were drawn this week when jurors for Vinton county were selected. Four of the women are to serve on the petit jury and the fifth on the grand jury.

LOGAN, May 20. — H. A. Gordon, 68, is the oldest school teacher in Hocking county and, perhaps, in Southern Ohio. He has been teaching for 46 years continuously. Last year Mr. Gordon was at Black Jack School patrons have asked for his return there next year.

RUTLAND, May 20. — Mrs. L. P Wright has just celebrated her 74th birthday and, also, observed, a few days ago, the 45th anniversary of her invalidism which has kept her in bed nearly all the time. She is cared for by relatives. Her aged husband, a Civil war veteran, died a few years ago.

Altho a railroad was built in 1882 near her home, Mrs. Wright has never seen a railroad train. A trip to the railroad is the height of her ambition as she has, for years, listened to the whistles of the trains as they passed near her home.

ELYRIA, May 20. — The $25,000 personal injury case, instituted by John Maiden, Lorain, against the Lorain Street Railway Company, was settled just as the personnel of the jury was determined upon.

ELYRIA, May 20. — After the state examiner censured city Treasurer Ralph Standen for making his bank the Elyria Savings Deposit & Trust Company, depository, council advertised for bids and a council committee decided that the variation of bids didn't warrant changing depositories.

BUCYRUS, May 20. — Mrs. Henry Schiffer, 48, committed suicide by inhaling gas at her home. Ill-health was assigned as the cause.

WOOSTER, May 20 —Dredging will be started to construct an old-time swimming hole along Christmas run, north of Wooster. A diving board and dressing tents are to be provided. The work is being done by the Community Interest committee of the Wooster board of trade.

NEW CONCORD, May 20. — The body of Mrs. Mary Mellissa Montgomery, 90, stepmother of Dr. J. Knox Montgomery, president of the Muskingum college, was taken to Brownsville, Ill., for burial She was an invalid three years, due to a broken hip resulting from a fall, death occuring from paralysis.

MARTINS FERRY, May 20 — Eugenie Blair, who died while on the stage of a Chicago theatre Sunday was leading lady in "The Gladiator" on the night the local opera house now the Pastime theatre, we opened 25 years ago. Robert Downing, then her husband, was leading man.

ELYRIA, May 20. — Helen Korm 15, thru Mrs. Mae Friday, member of the municipal council here, has filed suit for divorce, charging that her husband, George Kenska, abducted their infant child and, later, kidnapped her taking her to his home at LaPorte from which she escaped, she said Kenska and Frank Drabik were held to the grand jury on $1,000 bond each in connection with charges embodied in the divorce petition.

MARTINS FERRY, May 20. — At a meeting in Cuyahoga Falls, May 29 plans will be made for a campaign among the 166,000 members of the North East Ohio M. E conference in an effort to raise $400,000 for the superannuated ministers' fund. Frank Arter, Cleveland, has offered to give $100,000 to the fund if the $400,000 is raised within 18 months. Largely thru Mr. Arter's aid, another $500,000 was raised a few years ago to provide a pension fund for retired pastors.

BUCYRUS, May 20. — The first annual picnic of the Crawford County Farm Bureau will be held the second week in August.

High Heels Ruin Feet, Says Boston Doctor

BOSTON, May 20—If the American women persist in wearing the extreme stylish mode of shoes, with high, inconvenient heels, they will be unable to walk in fifty years, according to Dr. Rudolph G. List, in a speech before members of the Orthopaedic Society of Boston. People ought to go barefooted more than they do, he added.

FOUR MILLIONS AVAILABLE SOON FOR OHIO ROADS

COLUMBUS, May 20.—The $4,000,000 of federal funds certified for construction of federal aid highways in Ohio, which has been held up in the bureau of roads in Washington, is soon to be available to the state, according to word received by state highway director Herrick.

Ohio law makers at the national capitol aided Director Herrick in arousing the bureau of roads to action. It was claimed that a subordinate, whose duty it was to approve state plans and specifications, had been holding them up.

SALVATION ARMY OFFICER MISSING WITH YOUNG GIRL

OLEAN, N. Y., May 20—A country-wide search was started today by police of this city and the Salvation Army to locate Captain E. E. Ballinger, until last Monday in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army and Blanche Foster, a 16-year-old girl, member of the corps. The girl disappeared on Saturday. Captain Ballinger disappeared on Monday. The girl's mother, Mrs. Roy E. Foster, has sworn out a warrant for Ballinger's arrest on a charge of abduction.

Disorders Continue During Week-End On Irish Border

BELFAST, May 20. — After a wild night of incendiarism, the border is experiencing another week-end reign of terror. Several police barracks at Antrim were blown up while attacks by other bands were being made at Glenarm and Carnlough.

One man was killed while at work on the border early this morning.

Another man was wounded in the melee that accompanied the burning of eight buildings here during the night.

One of the largest garages in the city was fired at daybreak, thousands of dollars worth of automobiles being lost.

DEMPSEY TO START WEST

NEW YORK, May 20. — It was indicated today that Jack Dempsey, who arrived from England yesterday, would start west in a few days without signing to meet any challengers for his world's heavyweight title.

CAMBRIDGE LINEUP IS ANNOUNCED FOR TOMORROW'S GAME

According to a late announcement made by the local management Saturday afternoon, the Regulars will clash with the fast Cambridge nine on the Red Sea diamond, Sunday afternoon, if the weather is favorable.

The diamond was reported in good shape Saturday afternoon, despite the steady rain since yesterday.

Following is the Cambridge lineup that was submitted to Manager Thomas Stull Saturday: F. Robertson, p; T. Lineham, ss; H. Bates, 1b; H. Hogan, 2b; M. McNitch, 3b; M. Lineham, lf; G. Foster, cf; D. Bates, rf; B. Shivers, sub. and E. Robertson, sub.

FRAT. LEAGUE BRIEFS

Take notice Fraternal League managers: It's only 11 more days until utility lists must be cut down to fifteen eligible players This becomes effective on June 1.

The Moose team has added three more new players to its roster. "Lefty" Wilden is the newly added hurler for the Moose. "Lefty" hails from Tyndall, and will probably be on the mound for the Moose in either the postponed game with the K. of C.'s on Wednesday or in the scheduled game, May 25 with the K. of P.'s.

The Fraternal League directors at their recent meeting approved the purchase of an umpire's outfit—masks, pads and everything.

Davis and Gillen will probably form the Elk's battery in Monday night's game, when the Elks and Eagles tangle at Red Sea. The Eagles' manager had not disclosed his battery for Monday's fray.

Bob Wiggins is eligible to do mound duty for the Knights of Pythias. Bobby is now a member of the K. of P. lodge. Wiggins will soon don a K. of P. uniform and participate in the Fraternal League activities

Last report heard from the Chief of the Red Men, was that he intended strengthening his band with some new warriors for the next "anbush", with the Knights of Columbus. Chief Laird plans on making the next affair a "scalping party." The Red Men and K. of C.'s meet on Tuesday evening.

The Elks and Knights of Pythias, are balancing the top of the League, while the Eagles and Red Men are supporting the other end.

The League Standing:

	W	L	Pct.
Elks	1	0	1.000
K. of P.	1	0	1.000
Moose	0	0	.000
K. of C.	0	0	.000
Red Men	0	1	.000
Eagles	0	1	.000

This week's schedule:
Monday—Eagles vs Elks.
Tuesday—Red Men vs K. of C.'s.
Wednesday—K. of C. and Moose postponed game.
Thursday—Moose vs K. of P. (according to schedule.)

LAD'S VERDICT FOR $18,000 IS ATTACKED

COLUMBUS, May 20. — Appeal was filed today with the state supreme court from the action of the Cuyahoga-co circuit court in awarding Milton Sobolovitz, 12 year old Cleveland lad, $18,000 damages against the Lubrick Company, of that city. The award was granted for injuries alleged to have been received when young Sobolovitz was struck by a truck belonging to the company.

DAIL DEBATES PROPOSAL FOR JUNE ELECTION

DUBLIN, May 20. — There was heated debate today when members of Dail Eireann (the Sinn Fein parliament) considered Arthur Griffith's proposal for a general election June 16. Griffith's friends plan to put the question to a vote but it will probably be some time after nightfall before every speaker has had a chance to put himself on record.

DeValera in plain language has given his reasons for not agreeing to the peace proposals His arguments are expected to result in the vote being very close when Griffith's proposal is called before the house.

NO REAL DEMAND FOR FAITH STATEMENT, BAPTISTS DECLARE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 20 — Holding that there is no real demand for a new statement of Baptist beliefs at this time, the Southern Baptist convention today refused to name a committee of nine to cooperate with a like committee from the Northern Baptist convention in the drafting of a new American Baptist confession of faith.

A memorial asking that such a committe be named came from a conference of Baptist leaders from both the North and the South at Columbia, Missouri, last January.

We Figure That This Is Good Business

Everybody we talk to about it agrees with us that it's good business:

To diagnose battery trouble as carefully as a doctor diagnoses his cases.

To advise and make repairs only when we know repairs will pay.

To recommend the purchase of a new battery only when repairs on the old one would not be a good investment.

To speak frankly, plainly, and with a thought of the best interests of the battery owner whether his is a Willard Battery or not.

BOOTLEGGERS GOT 67,000 GAL. BOOZE ON MEDICAL PERMITS

CLEVELAND, O., May 20—Rumors of one of the most gigantic conspiracies to violate the federal prohibition law finally came to a head today when warrants were issued by United State commissioner E. J. Hopple, charging Armand A. Gardos, former president and general manager of the Armand Drug and Candy company, wholesale druggists, and Harry A. Grossberg, a merchandise broker, with offices in the Leader building with violation of the Volstead act. The particular offense charged relates to the unlawful distribution of 67,377 gallons of Hayner bonded whiskey, released on medicinal permits regularly issued thru the office of federal prohibition officer J. E. Russel at Columbus, but inspector A. L. Melahn, of Toledo, in charge of the government probe, declared today that even greater withdrawals from other distilleries might be unearthed and that this liquor also had found its way to the bootlegging trade.

The Armand Drug and Candy company was re-organized a short time ago, Gardos retiring from active participation. Branch retail stores are operated at 917 Euclid and 1828 Euclid. Efforts to serve the warrants this afternoon failed both men being reported as absent from their homes. Neither the families nor business associates of the men charged were able to throw any light on their probable whereabouts, altho it was thot that Gardos may have already left for Europe.

THIRD ATTEMPT TO SETTLE IND. COAL STRIKE A FAILURE

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 20—For the third time overtures of the Indiana coal operators towards bringing an end to the mine strike thru a separate state wage agreement have failed. John Hessler, president of district eleven, United Mine workers today stated he would decline the latest invitation, extended last evening by Phil Penna, secretary of The Indiana Bituminous Coal Operators Asociation, to a special joint operators-miners conference to negotiate a wage scale for this state. The miners are holding out for a national agreement.

SEPARATE HIGH SCHOOLS ARE SUPERIOR TO CO-ED SYSTEM, PIERSON SAYS

NEW YORK, May 20 — "School authorities of the present day have to shoulder responsibilities toward the adolescent boy or girl that modern parents fail to meet," Henry C. Peirson principal of Horace Mann Schools said today.

The solution lies in separate high schools for boys and girls, he believes. Horace Mann School began the experiment of separate education in high schools during 1914. Their methods have been widely copied, according to Mr. Peirson. "Hit and miss parental discipline of the modern home and 'wiseness' of the present crop of adolescents make the separate high school a necessity," he asserted. "Too much responsibility for the morals of the children are otherwise thrust upon teachers.

"Parents of today seem actually to encourage growing children in foolish dress, wrong sorts of amusements, reading and even friends. The result is the overly-wise child, sophisticated to an alarming degree. They are not prepared in the average home for co-edutation. They have started wrong.

"At the age of 12 or 13 there is the dawning of sex consciousness on the part of boy and girl. Under the right sort of conditions it can be turned into normal channels.

"Girls seem to care less for foolish frills and more for books where they meet alone in class at this age," he continued.

"Boys can be stimulated to do better work where the feminine element is lacking. Since we have adopted separate instruction for high school purposes we would not return to the former co-education system."

has not been oficially verified, stated that the entire garrison at Martinstown has perished while repulsing an attack. Raids were reported on Codown Barracks and a dispatch said that Galgorm Castle Ballymon, had burned down. The postoffice at Cushendall, county Antrim, was also raided. The residence of Ronald McNeill, M. P., in Cushendon, a suburb of this city, was destroyed by fire.

Two drovers were killed in a wild "free-for-all" street fight on the docks. Reports from country districts tell of raids over the border, and rumors of many casualties.

DUBLIN, May 20.—Michael Collins and Eamonn DeValera have come to an agreement at last. Following a heated and a protracted debate by members of Dail Eireann, the decision was definitely reached to form a coalition cabinet, DeValera's followers getting a certain proportion of the ministerial seats, and providing their present numbers in the Dail.

The agreement provides that the Free Staters shall hold the presidency and seven places in the coalition cabinets and DeValera's followers four cabinet portfolios. It was also agreed that the general election should be held June 16. The only opposition that is expected to the agreement is on the part of certain labor leaders in the Dail. However, it is believed that peace may be made with them.

KING TO AGAIN

Main-st to Sixth-st and thence north to the Oak Ridge cemetery, where the graves of 152 soldier dead will be decorated by the World war veterans.

A firing squad composed of World war veterans will give the customary salute in honor of the dead. Lincoln's Gettysburg address will be read, and Logan's order number 11 will also be read. This order was the first order to be issued by General John A. Logan of the G. A. R. proclaiming the manner in which Memorial Day should be observed by the G. A. R. Logan was the first commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Lloyd S. Leech, county prosecutor, will deliver the memorial address at Oak Ridge.

Thep rocession will then reform and march to South Lawn cemetery. There the Boy Scouts will have charge of the decoration of the graves. Following the services by the Boy Scouts, the Women's Relief Corps will have charge of impressive ceremonies, which will be staged at the memorial monument. Mrs. Harry Kerlin, president of the W. R. C. will close those services by singing "America."

As the course to be taken by the procession is lengthy and would tire the older war veterans, the G. A. R. committee has requested that patriotic friends of the soldiers who own automobiles furnish transportation for the members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C.

Any flowers from private concerns or individuals will be gladly received by the committee in charge of the decorations, if they are sent to the city hall by Monday, May 29.

YOUNGSTOWN SHEET AND TUBE BACKS OUT OF COMBINE

NEW YORK, May 20—The organization of a huge steel combine centering about the Bethlehem Steel corporation, which will prove a formidable competitor to the United States Steel corporation, was seen as a possibility today as the result of the withdrawal of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company from the proposed combine.

Altho Thomas L. Chadburn, counsel for the merging companies, declared that conferences among the five other concerns would continue to determine whether it was advisable to proceed with the consolidation o na five-company basis, the best information gleaned from financial circles was that the plan would now be abandoned. Youngstown Sheet and Tube was the largest member of the entire group. Acording to rumors in the Wall Street district today the deflection of the Youngstown company from the plan paves the way for purchase of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance company and the Republican Steel and Iron company by the Bethlehem Steel corporation.

These reports could not be confirmed but were indicated by the sharp upturns recently made by the stock of both Midvale and Republic on the stock exchange.

EDISON URGES FORD BE GIVEN CONTROL OF MUSCLE SHOALS

WASHINGTON, May 20. — A great industrial center will be developed thruout the Tennessee Valley if Henry Ford is given control of the government waterpower project at Muscle Shoals, Thomas Edison told the senate agriculture committee today in a closed conference.

Edison declared Ford would revolutionize the manufacture of fertilizer, build great factories and spread prosperity thru the whole south. He warmly recommended acceptance of Ford's offer but even more ardently advocated development of the project.

CORN IN MARION CO. DAMAGED BY FLOODS

MARION, O., May 20.—Streams all over the county are bulging from their banks and heavy damage has resulted in the lowlands, where much corn had been planted. County Farm Agent A. B. Stowe says that more acres are under water in the county than at any time since the 1913 flood. A number of pikes are also inundated on account of the heavy rains of the past few days.

DEPT. TO RID NEW YORK P. O. OF ROBBERS

WASHINGTON, May 20. — Acting Postmaster-General Bartlett left hurriedly today for New York, where he will assume charge of the contemplated re-organization of the New York City postoffice, as result of the arrest of seven men held in connection with the mail robbery of one and a half million dollars of last October.

Third assistant postmoser general Glover today announced that the greatest clean-up of a postoffice ever undertaken by the department will be instituted in New York "In an effort to eliminate entirely from the service any employes who are found to be connected in any way with this band of crooks and yeggmen who have been operating principally thru the registry division of the New York City office."

SIX THOUSAND SHOE WORKERS STRIKE TO PROTEST WAGE CUT

CINCINNATI, May 20. — Sixteen local shoe factories were closed today because of the walk-out of 6,000 shoe workers who refused to accept a wage cut of ten per cent which the employers attempted to enforce. W. H. Tatman, secretary of the manufacturers' association, estimated today that the payroll of the sixteen factories was about $200,000 weekly. "We have stocks in our warehouse that would enable us to remain shut down for a year without feeling the strike," Tatman said.

"At present prices we cannot get business anyway, and the only way we can operate is at a lower wage scale."

William Prout, secretary of The Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, said that the union proposed to fight to a finish and had a $400,000 fund with which to pay benefits.

Felsch Suit Being Heard

MILWAUKEE, WIS., May 20. — Intimating that questions submitted by Ray Cannon, attorney for Oscar "Happy" Felsch in his suit against the Chicago White Sox for damages and back pay, are relevant. Judge Gregory in circuit court here today said that if the law permits he will order Charles Comiskey and Lewis Comiskey of the White Sox to Milwaukee for examination. Hearing was continued pending Judge Gregory's decision as to points of law involved.

Manufacturers Of Kidney Remedy With "Kick" Get Stiff Prison Sentences

TOLEDO, May 20. — Cecil H. Kearns, of Columbus, and W. Earl Tolheim, former officials of the Victor Drug & Chemical Co. and Essanay Chemical company, were given prison terms today after a jury in federal court had found the manufacture and sale of "V. K. S.," so called kidney remedy, constituted a violation of the Volstead act. Kearns was fined $10,000 and given two years at Atlanta while Tolheim drew a fine of $500 and a prison sentence of 18 months. The evidence given during the trial tended to show that "V. K. S." contained 33 percent alcoholic content and was in great demand for the "kick" it contained.

Babe's Ban Is Lifted

NEW YORK, May 20. — "That's the best news I've got in many years," declared Babe Ruth today, when he was handed Judge Landis' telegram, informing him that his suspension for participating in a barnstorming tour last fall had been lifted. "Now watch my smoke." Ruth was as delighted as a child with a new toy and immediately hustled out to the Polo grounds to don the uniform.
